Selected history titles from CDU Press

The Sound of the Sky

By Daena Murray
In the Northern Territory, the weight of the earth is balanced by the impact of the sky. This book presents a visual record of Euro-Australian artists' responses to the Northern Territory: its land and people and its resonating sky.

ISBN 0-9802923-0-1 RRP $75.00

The Chinese in the Northern Territory

By Timothy Jones
Records the largely neglected part played by the Chinese in the development of the Territory. An attempt to set the record straight and to trace the erosion of ethnic differences, which led to the foundation of Darwin's multiracial society.

ISBN 1 876248 01 7 151pp RRP $47.20

Enterprise in Tropical Australia

By George Windsor Earl
With an introduction by R H W Reece
A facsimile edition of original published in 1846 by Madden and Malcolm, London. Entrepreneurial activity in northern Australia in the early nineteenth century.

ISBN 1 876248 79 3 219pp RRP $27.95

In Search of the Never-Never: Looking for Australia in Northern Territory Writing

By Mickey Dewar
The Northern Territory remains the region of romantic idealisation of the Australian outback tradition. In Search of the 'Never-Never' is an examination of the literary tradition which created the myth.

ISBN 1 876248 06 8 234pp RRP $33.00

The Tiwi: From Isolation to Cultural Change

By John Morris
An ethnohistory, exploring the reaction of the Tiwi to exposure to outside cultures until 1918. The presence of buffalo shooters and missionaries in the early years of the nineteenth century signalled the beginning of social and cultural changes in Tiwi society.

ISBN 1 876248 60 2 160pp RRP $45.95

The Evolution of Darwin 1869-1911

By Kathy de la Rue
Darwin is the only capital city situated in the Tropics. In its comparatively short history, it has been almost completely destroyed four times by Japanese bomber pilots in 1942, and by cyclones in 1897, 1937 and 1974. It has suffered many vicissitudes in social and economic spheres, and it has other unique characteristics, which make it special to all who live there.

ISBN 1 876248 90 4 163pp RRP $38.50

Darwin Archaeology

Edited by Patricia Bourke, Sally Brockwell & Clayton Fredericksen

The first compilation of archaeological research for the Darwin region. Attention focuses on a single region from a variety of perspectives, over a time period from 4000 years ago to the Second World War. The aim is to make the results of this research accessible to the general public, as well as to archaeologists and historians.

ISBN 1 876248 98 X 111pp RRP $34.95

A Past Displayed

By David Carment
How individuals and communities in Australia's Northern Territory have thought about their histories and how these histories have been interpreted as part of wider strategies concerned with education, museums, national parks and tourism. Attitudes, memories and imagination that at the end of the twentieth century endowed the physical forms of the Territory's past with meaning.

ISBN 1 876248 67 X 133pp RRP $45.95

Up the Dusty Track

By Norman W. Booth
An Australian World War Two novel with a difference. There are no great fights. But there are daily battles against appalling conditions and equipment, in a race against time to carry troops and supplies to the North by the only route possible. The war is seen through the eyes of various characters forming part of the convoy up the rapidly constructed track from Alice Springs to Larrimah.

ISBN 1 876248 73 4 184pp RRP $39.95

Broken Dreams and Broken Promise: The Cane Conspiracy

By Ian Mackintosh Hillock
The rise and fall (1879-1889) of the first real trial of large-scale agricultural production in the Northern Territory - the attempt to establish sugar plantations. A story of heroic yet misguided efforts that explains how the failure of the sugar industry had a significant impact on the Territory's subsequent history.

ISBN 1 876248 48 3 128pp RRP $33.00
